

ELCS LAB EXPERIMENTS

Exercise –II (CALL LAB)

(Experiment 1)

1. SYLLABLE AND STRUCTURE OF SYLLABLES:

A syllable is a unit of sound and a rhythmic unit of speech. A word can be divided into syllables. Each syllable is a sound that can be said without interruption (smallest unit of pronunciation) and are usually a vowel that can have consonants before and after it. Since the presence of a vowel is crucial in a syllable, the vowel is called the nucleus of a syllable.

Eg: pencil; pen-cil, cigarette: ci-ga-rette. Application: a-ppli-ca-tion

Kinds of syllables:

Monosyllabic: A word that has only one syllable. Eg: bar, her, it, why, both, bath

Disyllabic: A word, which has two syllables. Eg: cannot, under, forward, tailor, maintain

Trisyllabic: A word, which has three syllables. Eg: examine, beautiful, poetry, apartment

Polysyllabic: A word that has more than three syllables. Eg: beautification, examination, civilization

WORD STRESS:

Stress is a breath force of a syllable. In English, we do not say each syllable with the same force or strength. We say one syllable very loudly called as primary stress (big, strong, and important) and all the other syllables very quietly. When a word or a syllable in word is produced louder, lengthier, with higher pitch or with more quality, it will be perceived as stressed.

Words that are often Stressed & Unstressed:

- Information words in a sentence like nouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs are usually stressed. They give information about who, what, when, where, why, and how. They express the main idea or content of the phrase or sentence.
- Unstressed words are usually function words like articles, pronouns, possessives, prepositions, auxiliary verbs, and conjunctions. These words connect the information words to form grammatical sentences.

Word Accent Exercises:

In disyllabic words the accent is on the first syllable if the word is a noun or adjective and on the second syllable if it is a verb.

‘absent – ab’sent ‘accent – ac’cent ‘conduct – con’duct ‘content – con’tent
‘contrast – con’trast ‘contract – con’tract ‘convert – con’vert
‘compress – com’press ‘conflict – con’flict ‘contact – con’tact
‘desert – de’sert ‘dictate – dic’tate ‘export – ex’port frequent – fre’quent
‘impress – im’press ‘progress – pro’gress ‘object – ob’ject ‘produce – pro’due

Disyllabic words – Accent on the first syllable

‘able ‘agent ‘army ‘artist ‘beauty ‘body ‘butter ‘any ‘beggar ‘color

Disyllabic words – Accent on the second syllable

a’bout a’dmit a’dvance a’go al’tough a’gree be’gin

2. Intonation: Intonation refers to the total pattern of pitch changes, i.e., the rising and falling of the voice when a person is speaking, within an utterance. So we call the melody of language as intonation. It is another important element of spoken English.

Types of Intonation:

English has different intonation patterns:

1. Falling intonation (the glide-down)
2. Rising intonation (the glide-up)
3. Falling-Rising intonation
4. Rising-Falling intonation

Falling Tone: In the falling intonation, there is a gradual and rhythmical fall in the pitch of the speaker, with a considerable duration and tempo. Falling tune is commonly used in:

- a. Giving commands. Ex. Get out, sit down
- b. Making statements. Ex. It is a bird.
- c. Asking questions that demand information. Ex. What is your pet name?

Rising Tone: As the name rightly suggests, there is a rhythmical rise in the speaker's pitch level as it consequently affects the pace and duration of the speech production. In rising intonation, the stressed syllables are capitalized in the sentences, and the rising pitch level of the speaker is shown by the arrow at the end of the sentence.

Rising Tone is commonly used in:

1. questions that demand 'yes' or 'No' answers,
2. questions that show warm personal interest,
3. enumerating items,
4. polite requests,
5. greetings,
6. indicating uncertainty, and
7. incomplete statements.

Falling – Rising Tone:

This tone is the combination of a fall and a rise. This is used for statements expressing reservation, making correction, and for giving warnings and threats.

1. She is beautiful (but not intelligent)
2. I saw him (but I didn't speak to him)

SITUATIONAL DIALOGUES – ROLE-PLAY:

Introduction: Conversation is a form of interactive, spontaneous communication between two or more people. Typically, it occurs in spoken communication, as written exchanges are usually not referred to as conversations. The development of conversational skills and etiquette is an important part of socialization.

Improving Conversation Skills:

- Genuine Interest in People
- Diplomacy
- Information
- Experience

Do's in Conversation:

- Recognize Basic Needs
- Be Supportive
- Be Sensitive
- Give Feedback
- Develop Mutual Respect

Don'ts in Conversation:

- Dominate a Conversation
- Use Inappropriate Volume/Pitch
- Use Excessive Small Talk
- Visually Ignore Someone
- Constantly Interrupt

Effective communication strategies:

1. Listening
2. Use Names
3. Get to the Point
4. Let Others Talk:
5. Non-verbal Language
6. Vocal Cues
7. Create an Atmosphere of Openness

ROLE-PLAY: Role-playing can be thought of as unstructured drama. In these exercises, a student looks at the topic from the perspective of a character. These exercises require the students to use imagination, background knowledge appropriate to the character being role-played, and communications skills.

DO'S :

1. Understand and analyze the situation.
2. Identify your role and act accordingly.
3. Frame your sentences, questions and answers properly.
4. Be as natural as possible. Be yourself.
5. Check the posture and move a little.
6. Use your hands to express your point.

7. Maintain very good eye contact with the other person.
8. Make sure of shortened forms of words like _shan't, don't etc., which are vital for spoken form of language.

Activity : Select any formal situation and write a situational dialogue

Example : A customer comes to a bank to apply for a bank loan and approaches the manager. (Conversation between the Customer & the Manager)

customer -----
manager -----
customer -----
manager -----

(Experiment 2) TELEPHONE ETIQUETTE

Learning how to communicate well on the telephone is one of the top priorities for many students who need to use English at work. However, what students often need most is practice, practice, and more practice.

Overcome Barriers:

The first and foremost difficulty is not being able to see the person you are communicating with. This lack of visual communication often makes students, who can communicate quite successfully in other situations, nervous and thereby hinders their communicative abilities.

Breathe:

Before you pick up the phone, take a deep breath. Practice taking a very big breath and answering the phone at the top of that breathe.

Identify yourself:

Give your full name and function and or the name of your company. Since they have taken the time to call you, you may answer the phone this way;

Be Sincere:

If we are honest with ourselves, we are all “problem solvers” in some way. People call us on the phone to have a problem answered quickly, intelligently and politely.

Listen attentively:

Put everything down when you answer the phone. Callers don't like to be ignored and by multitasking, we are not focused on the caller's wants and needs.

Visualize the person:

Visualize the person, even if you don't know them so that you remind yourself you are engaged in a two-way conversation.

Telephone etiquettes

- Do not let the telephone ring for the long time.
- Understand that he might be not in a position to receive your call.
- Before starting the conversation, greet the other person with an appropriate greeting.
- Be polite while introducing you and while taking/giving information.
 - Do not use objectionable language.
- Thank the caller while closing the conversation.
- Even while rejecting any favour or help, be polite in your language.
 - Attend the call without long pauses.
- Finish the call and take leave formally
